On April 19, 1969, [REDACTED] advised that CHARLES REAM told [REDACTED] on April 18, 1969, that there would be a demonstration at the WMU commencement exercises on April 19, 1969. REAM stated that the demonstrators will use a bull horn and have tables set up for the purpose of handing out literature to persons attending the commencement.

[REDACTED] informed that Governor WILLIAM MILLIKEN of Michigan was scheduled as the principal speaker at the commencement exercises and that REAM had indicated the demonstration would be a form of protest to the governor having ordered Michigan State Police intervention at demonstrations at Ferris State University, Big Rapids, Michigan and the WMU.

[REDACTED] also advised that on April 19, 1969, there was no demonstration at the WMU commencement exercises that day and that there was no apparent attempt by anyone to demonstrate. REAM was present at the commencement exercises as a spectator and was unable to receive his degree because he had incompletes in several courses.

On May 15, 1969, [REDACTED] advised that REAM had stated he wanted to start working on his doctorate to prepare himself to be president of a university "so things can be run as they should". REAM also stated that if he could not be hired he would start his own university..

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] advised on May 13, 1969, that in January, 1969, REAM was offered but refused an Undergraduate Assistantship in the Honors College worth $1,200.00. [REDACTED]

13
[REDACTED] REAM told [REDACTED] that he had participated in the riots at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, Illinois, during August, 1968, and that he had struck two policemen with objects in Washington, D.C. during the weekend of the Presidential Inauguration in January, 1969. REAM also stated to [REDACTED] that these acts were his contribution to bring about his kind of world. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] advised that REAM was one of the leaders and spokesmen for a group of students who met with WMU President JAMES W. MILLER on March 24, 1969, and presented demands for increased student rights and power.

[REDACTED] informed that on Tuesday night, April 1, 1969, a large group of students staged a "stay-in" in the Snack Bar in the WMU Student Center as a protest to a proposed hike in tuition and in furtherance of their demand for increased rights for students by permitting students to have as much voice as the faculty in administrative matters. Shortly after 11:00 p.m. on the night of April 1, 1969, WMU Vice President PAUL L. GRIFFETH announced to the group in the Snack Bar that they were guilty of unlawful assembly and that they would be given 15 minutes to leave the building or be subject to arrest. Many of the students remained in the building until approximately 2:00 a.m., April 2, 1969, at which time they apparently learned that police were on their way to the campus.

[REDACTED] identified REAM as one of the students who remained in the Snack Bar after the announcement was made by Vice President GRIFFETH.

REAM was ordered to appear before the Men's Disciplinary Board at WMU on April 16, 1969, to answer the charge that he failed to obey an administrative order to vacate the premises.

REAM appeared before that board the day designated and claimed that he was in the rest room when Vice President GRIFFETH made the announcement and that he did not hear the announcement. REAM had with him several students who were prepared to testify to his having been absent when Vice President GRIFFETH made the announcement. REAM admitted, however, that he was told about the announcement and that he had remained in the Snack Bar after learning of it. The Men's Disciplinary Board issued a "warning" to REAM.

On August 26, 1969, [REDACTED] advised that while REAM is not known to be an officer of any radical student organization, he has through his activity, speeches and writings, gathered much support of unorganized students in furthering the "student rights" movement.

[REDACTED] advised that REAM is articulate and very skillful in persuading fellow students to his line of reasoning and in getting their support for actual militant student activities.

A suitable photograph of REAM is available.

C. Interview With Subject

REAM informed that he had been a member of the SDS at Western Michigan University during the 1968-1969 school year; however, held no position of leadership in the organization. He noted that he was once erroneously identified in the "Hillsdale Gazette" as the president of the SDS Chapter at Western Michigan University and that he had informed the newspaper thereafter that he was not the president of the organization and shortly thereafter a retraction was printed by the newspaper stating that REAM was not the president and was in no way connected with [REDACTED]. He stated he made no further attempt to have the newspaper correct this retraction and let it stand publicly that he was not an SDS member.

Date 9/3/69

CHARLES DAVID REAM appeared at the Kalamazoo, Michigan, Resident Agency alone at 2:07 P.M. He was immediately given the identity of the interviewing Agent and informed that the interview regarded his possible knowledge of the arson of the ROTC building at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan, on May 5, 1969. He was promptly furnished a "Voluntary Appearance; Advice of Rights" form which he read, completed and signed.

REAM announced that he did not appear at the FBI Office to assist the FBI and had no intention of aiding forces of repression, but merely came to the office out of curiosity as he had been told the FBI was looking for him. He stated that he desired to answer only questions relevant to the stated purpose of the interview and he admonished the interviewing Agent not to make any "small talk" to "open me up".

REAM stated that he had no knowledge whatsoever regarding the arson of the ROTC building at Western Michigan University on May 5, 1969. He commented that people suspected "us" as those responsible but that someone else had stepped in and done the job. He explained that by "us" he meant Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) members and campus activists at Western Michigan University. He claimed that he had nothing to do with the arson and that he could establish his whereabouts for that date if necessary, but was unable to do so at the present time.

REAM informed that he had been a member of the SDS at Western Michigan University during the 1968-1969 school year; however, held no position of leadership in the organization. He noted that he was once erroneously identified in the "Kalamazoo Gazette" as the president of the SDS Chapter at Western Michigan University and that he had informed the newspaper thereafter that he was not the president of the organization and shortly thereafter a retraction was printed by the newspaper stating that REAM was not the president and was in no way connected with the SDS. He stated he made no further attempt to have the newspaper correct this retraction and let it stand publicly that he was not an SDS member.
